Are you working across the generations?

Would you like to meet people who are?

Would you like to know more about Intergenerational Practice?

If so then this meeting is for you!

Who should attend?

Generations Working Together (GWT) is creating an intergenerational network for Dundee designed to create networking opportunities for organisations and groups who would like to be kept up to date with what's happening in the local area along with opportunities to link with other key partners in delivering current and future intergenerational activities. In addition you will hear about what GWT is planning to do nationally and how you can have an input in to our policies and strategies.

Representatives of organisations such as:

Voluntary & community groups, councillors, educational institutions (such as schools, colleges, nurseries etc), local authority departments, health boards, police, fire and rescue, sheltered housing, care homes, youth groups, sports groups, local faith communities, older people's groups, health & disability groups and other interested parties are invited to attend.

'Intergenerational practice aims to bring people together in purposeful, mutually beneficial activities promoting greater understanding and respect between the generations, and contributing to building more cohesive communities.'
