Are you working across the generations in schools?

Would you like to meet people who are?

Would you like to know more about Intergenerational Practice?

If so then this meeting is for you!

Who should attend?

Generations Working Together (GWT) Edinburgh & Lothians Network is well established but has never visited West Lothian. This meeting highlights good practice between St Joseph's Primary School and the Mood Project, a voluntary organisation working with older people who have or may develop depression.

Representatives of organisations such as:

Voluntary & community groups, councillors, educational institutions (such as schools, colleges, nurseries etc), local authority departments, health boards, police, fire and rescue, sheltered housing, care homes, youth groups, sports groups, local faith communities, older people's groups, health & disability groups and other interested parties are invited to attend.

'Intergenerational practice aims to bring people together in purposeful, mutually beneficial activities promoting greater understanding and respect between the generations, and contributing to building more cohesive communities.'
