inform 100

Inform 100 is an exciting new project where young people will help Audit Scotland look at public services in Scotland.

Inform 100 will work with Audit Scotland and Youth Scotland to make young people's voices heard about public services that effect Scotland's communities. We're looking for a core group of 16–20 Young Advisors, aged 12-25, and a wider forum to make up Inform 100.

Get involved now, develop your leadership skills and be part of the youth forum that informs Audit Scotland's essential work in Scotland—be part of Inform 100!

What is involved?

You will participate in creative and engaging meetings around every two months, along with training and support from Youth Scotland through our Lead young leaders programme, to achieve a Youth Achievement Award.

By becoming a Young Advisor you will form a panel working with Audit Scotland and Youth Scotland for two years, starting in September 2018.

Audit Scotland looks at how the Scottish Government, councils, colleges, hospitals and other public bodies use their money and what difference that makes to people in Scotland. You can find out more about their work at www.audit-scotland.gov.uk

All applicants will join the Inform 100 online forum to feed in your views and help Audit Scotland hear the opinions of young people across Scotland.

So how do I get involved?

Be creative! We're looking for you to tell us:

Do you want to film yourself on your mobile and apply by video? Maybe you're a singer/songwriter, or an artist ready to storyboard? Got a way with words or a gift for writing? Do you vlog, podcast or blog? Tell us your answers in the way you want to! The first wave of applications close 31/8/2018.
