- Donna McGlashan, Intergenerational Development Officer – Perth & Kinross (Tuesday/Wednesday)

Generations Working Together are delighted to partner with Food for Life on a new nationwide programme, funded by the Lottery Community Fund. The Food for Life Get Together programme uses good food to bring people of different ages together through growing, cooking and eating. Having the chance to get together, share a fresh, healthy meal and have a chat can really change people’s day to day lives. The aim of the programme is to transform our food culture, unite communities, create meaningful relationships between generations and unlock the power of good food for physical and mental health and wellbeing.

Intergenerational Housing case studies report provides a digest of 12 case studies of intergenerational housing drawn from the UK and internationally. These provide examples of intergenerational housing that have features and components that are applicable to the Scottish town centre context. This work is in the context of Architecture & Design Scotland’s programme Town Centre Living: A Caring Place. The intention is to identify examples of intergenerational living and housing that are consistent with the principles of A Caring Place but also to identify the elements of these case studies that can be applicable to achieving these principles in practice.

We had a good conversation about intergenerational housing and how it might be helpful with recruitment issues for NHS staff and teachers.

For info - The Warwick-Edinburgh Mental Wellbeing Scales were developed to enable the measuring of mental wellbeing in the general population and the evaluation of projects, programmes and policies which aim to improve mental wellbeing. The 14-item scale WEMWBS has 5 response categories, summed to provide a single score. The items are all worded positively and cover both feeling and functioning aspects of mental wellbeing, thereby making the concept more accessible. The scale has been widely used nationally and internationally for monitoring, evaluating projects and programmes and investigating the determinants of mental wellbeing. WEMWBS is protected by copyright. If you would like to use WEMWBS, you need to register to receive a license for use.
Now represent a not-for-profit organisation (for example public sector, charity, NGOs, government bodies and community interest companies), the scales are available for use by a standard free license. You can register here and this will act as automatic permission.

Can intergenerational relationships be useful at end of life?

GWT has been in conversation with Dr Forbat around developing a new research study: Intergenerational innovation: health promoting palliative care and death literacy in the care home setting. Here is a brief introduction on the proposal so far:

Intergenerational is defined as that which occurs between groups which are separated by at least 20 years, and a raft of research and practice initiatives have focused on non-kin intergenerational relationships, to manifest social change. Developing collaborations between care homes for older people and nurseries for the under 5s, primary school children, teens, and wider age groups of children with complex needs have been areas of particular focus.

Less recognised and explored is how intergenerational relationships and their role plays in health promoting palliative care; that is, the increasing role of the wider community and self-management in supporting people who are in their last phase of life. Care homes often now operate as sub-acute units, with very frail older people often living with complex multiple morbidities. The impact of intergenerational relationships on beliefs about frailty, death and dying is ripe for exploration.

If you have experiences in this field and have been connecting younger people with people in the last 6 months of life or would like to get involved, please get in touch with Alison Clyde.

Local Update

We talked about organising an event to showcase the good work happening in Caithness & Sutherland. We felt May might be a good month. The plan to try to hold the event at Nucleus in Wick. This will take a lot of partnership working and will need to access some local funding to help us achieve our goal. With stalls, speakers and perhaps music. To put any suggestions forward or to offer to help please contact Kirsteen@generationsworkingtogether.org

Dominic told us about their successful Safe & Well Highlander Event held in Golspie on the 14th September. In previous years it has been a senior’s event but this year they aimed it at all ages. They had a marketplace with information stalls which included NHS Highland, Highlife Highland, Sutherland Care Forum, CAB, Connecting Communities, Tykes, Home Energy Scotland, SSE, Highland Senior Citizens Network, Age Scotland and Tele Care. The Caithness Big Band entertained everyone. A very successful non-judgemental event with 68 attending. There is plans to organise an event for next year again.

Isobel told us about their successful food waste program. They collect waste food from the local Coop and hand it out to clients. Isobel told us about the white goods grant which they have just successfully received a new fridge/freezer. This will help their food waste program so much more. You can find out more from www.turn2us.org.uk

Dominic told us about Fareshare. Sutherland have started receiving food from them. For more information you can go to www.fareshare.org.uk or email GRobbie@cflne.org we felt this would be great information to share in Caithness.

Deirdre told us about her IT project for people with visual impairments, she has a young volunteer who visits people’s homes to help them set up their IPads or other computing equipment to make things easier for them to see and use. Looking for new volunteers age 16 up.

Dominic told us about Asset planning after the successful transfer of the Police station in Dornoch. A useful contact for more information is joan.bishop@outlook.com

Dominic also gave us a useful contact for the Moo food project emma@moofood.org
