

Dumfries & Galloway Network Meeting

Johnston Nursery Kirkudbright Open space

Attendees: Bella Kerr GWT, Liam Templeton Amphibian & Reptile Conservation, Rosslyn Corrie Johnston Nursery, Hollie Mitchell Johnston Nursery, Erin Davidson Dumfries and Galloway Council - Active Communities.

Apologies: Kim Wregg Wise Owls Nursery Moffat.

Welcomes

Special thanks to Hollie for inviting us all to the amazing outdoor space that she and others have created. We so loved being outdoors having a meeting outside was such a treat. Bella even had a lie down on a hammock just to try it out. We started with a welcome and intro and moved on quickly to a short icebreaker using some images of dancing both old time jive, disco, hip hop, break dance etc. This involved a short discussion about dancing today and memories of dancing in general. Each person chose an image and shared with the group, and this formed a story which worked out like a kind of storytelling icebreaker conversation. This type of activity can be done with young and older people and can be on any topic that they are interested in.

We had a general conversation about tress and environmental benefits of planting trees and talked about Oak regeneration and the National Trust.

Case Study

We looked at example research 'A Study of Intergenerational Community Relationships' and in doing so explored further the other aspects of intergenerational relationships in our communities. People were interested in the ideas of the study and Bella explained that GWT have been funded to carry out a piece of participatory research. Conversations ensued and was interesting to hear people's thoughts and insights into community of teenagers and older people.

Generational Names

We looked at generational names and where we fitted in to them. Generational terms are something that we often forget about, and it is a good way of looking at ageism and stereotypes and to recognise that generations have difference but that they also have great similarities.

Local IG Network Conversation and Feedback

We continued to chat about social behaviour according to the research and the differences and similarities between young and older people. Also, it was acknowledged that a high number of 16-year-olds work as modern apprentices. We also talked about social behaviour and visual cues such as young people wearing hoodies or just hanging about the street and seen as threatening when in fact, they are not doing anything. Rosslyn talked about modern apprenticeships and how young people can do them from SVQ to Degree as a different route from going straight to university. Rosslyn is a trainer for modern apprentices and in her role, she visits schools to let young people know of the options and points out that the modern apprentice ship scheme keeps young people in their local area.

Hollie from Johnston Nursery visit Strathdee (care home) and have been doing so monthly for 1 year they play with hoops, bean bags, drums, portraits, balloon tennis.

Generally, take along 3 – 5 year olds, but also have taken the babies which the older people loved to watch.

Liam explained that he was interested in IG work and was part of a project 'Species on the Edge' working on coastal communities looking at biological monitoring. He is working as part of a programme with the Youth Assembly and 16 – 25 year olds and conservation and policy and wanted to see if young people would be interested. Gen z have shown strong emotions to the natural environment and climate change in rural areas was with voluntary work being carried out in Carrick Bay. There are barriers to access and an introduction to IG element is something that may be beneficial. Often people in retirement age would be good to pair or buddy /mentor with younger people and in an educational sense would also be useful to track changes over time spans. Older generations may talk about changes and look at time lines. We had amazing discussion about Natter Jack Toads in the POW region and talked about the chorus of the toads reminding us of RSPB capturing birdsong initiative in your garden. We all had a long conversation about bats, corws, wildlife, coastal regions, volunteers, opportunities for people to take part, plans for IG work. People can contact Liam if they have an interest in his project liam.templeton@arc-trust.org

Updates from Generations Working Together

GWT News, Trainings & Events

National Intergenerational News

GWT Annual Conference

The Conference took place at the beginning of March in Glasgow. This year several academics from around the world were in attendance. The main point of discussion and audience participation was 'What does Intergenerational Quality Look Like?'

GWT Excellence Awards

Each year applications are opened in November with various criteria for projects to submit stories of their intergenerational interactions.

In 2022, there was a workshop to help applicants apply for an Excellence Award. People present stated that they would like to attend the 2023 workshop for guidelines. Everyone present was encouraged to apply.

Generations Working Together Website

<https://generationsworkingtogether.org/>

The website is due for a major tidy/updating and we would like to hear from our members what they do not like about it or what they find difficult to access. We would also like to know what members do like and what they would like to keep. We have had some suggestions of inserting Twitter feeds, is there anything else that you feel should be inserted?

The Network page is a page for members who deliver an intergenerational approach in geographical areas throughout Scotland, it is a space to publicise what is going on and a space to make connections. If you would like your project highlighted, please do get in touch with your Network coordinator Bella Kerr – bella@gwt.scot or with a member of the GWT team.

GWT Successful Funding Bids

GWT was successful in receiving funding to create a publication for an intergenerational approach to older people. Lorraine George, Learning and Development Officer will be visiting groups and hosting online sessions with groups to research and hear about their existing approaches to recruiting, maintaining, training and delivering intergenerational projects with older people. Lorraine will identify commonalities and gaps which GWT could support with to encourage more participation of older people in projects. She will then create a publication for the wider community to use. If you represent an older people's group and would like to contribute to the initial research, please get in touch with Lorraine directly.

Participatory Research and Community Safety

GWT are preparing work on new ground-breaking participatory research. Funded by UK Research and Innovation and delivered by The Young Foundation, the Community Knowledge Fund supports grassroots community groups and organisations across the UK to find new solutions to local and national challenges by uncovering knowledge and turning great ideas into action. GWT are currently in Phase 1 of the grant process which they are working on over the first 6 months (ending in July 2023) to explore participatory research and develop an Intergenerational Framework testing intergenerational relationships in Glasgow centre area. They have set up their first meetings with Youth Groups and groups of older people on this community led research. The intergenerational approach is aiming to allow all voices to be heard so that people can work together to explore community safety and intergenerational interventions. We aim to get to phase 2 of the research and will keep you informed on the progress and indeed invite people to take part. Bella Kerr is the Intergenerational Development Officer facilitating the research and she can be contacted if you wish to know anything further.

Global Intergenerational Week

Global intergenerational Week takes place this year 24 – 30th April #GIW23. Have a look and see some of the fun activities that you can use to take part, such as Host a mix and mingle, a photo diary challenge, and watch the new promotional video.

Thematic Network Meetings : We continue to host the thematic network meetings online via zoom, here are the links, you can read more about them and choose which one would suit you most;

Ageism Network Together with our membership GWT will host conversations around how intergenerational approaches can be used to address ageism.

Housing, Places and Spaces Network Join GWT's new network which will meet 3-4 times per year to share the latest information and resources from the field, facilitate peer learning, and grow the community of intergenerational housing, places and spaces.

Research Network Our aim is to connect practitioners, policy makers, academics and researchers who are actively or interested in investigating the impact of intergenerational work/relationships on both younger and older aged participants to come together to discuss research around intergenerational practice.

Care Home Network To build on the connections made with care homes across Scotland during the pandemic GWT would like to further develop these links by developing a thematic Care Home Network.

Celebratory Events

The Month of Community is a time when we come together to celebrate everything that makes our communities great. Join in this June - whether you want to say cheers to volunteers, connect with your neighbours, support a cause you care about, or simply to say thank you, it's all part of the Month of Community!

Intergenerational Training

1. Intergenerational Training One Day Course Intergenerational work is a proven approach which addresses a range of challenges facing people living across Scotland and the UK. With five generations in the workplace for the first time, the need for employers to understand and capitalise on their intergenerational workforce is greater than ever. Generations Working Together have developed a two and a half hour training course aimed at employers and employees to identify and address how intergenerational practice can increase collaboration in the workplace. Up to 16 participants per session (face to face) or up to 30 participants per session online.

Cost £400.00

Testimonial from YUGO: Thank you to Lorraine George and the team at Generations Working Together (GWT) for their insight on age awareness and helping our Yugoers grow by understanding what motivates different generations in the workplace. We are thankful for the knowledge of the benefits of an intergenerational workforce, and we learnt to feel more comfortable with problem-solving during situations. We highly recommend GWT's program for any organisation with intergenerational teams. (March 2023)
